CAMERON, Irving Howard [Prof. of Surgery and Clinical Surgery] November-May 1919 (080)

November 27th, 1918

Professor I. H. Cameron,

307 Sherbourne Street, Toronto.

My dear Professor Cameron:

I don't know how it happened that the page of the Bible from which the passage was read last Sunday was turned down. As far as I have observed it has not been done hitherto, but a book-marker will be a decidedly valuable addition.

Your judgment of Dr. Sibourg was very penetrating, because he himself told me afterwards that he was doubtful whether many people understood what was involved in all his positions. I doubt, however, very much whether he will leave the Anglican Church. It is quite possible for him to find as full scope as he requires where he is.

I should not have thought that he would necessarily follow in the footsteps of John Knox as you do.

I am interested in the passage that you quote and for which I thank you. It is somewhat in a line with an important article I read in the Literary Supplement to "The Times" some time in the middle of the summer. I think it came out in July. It is an evidence of a movement which is going on in England, which I think will have been greatly stimulated by the war, to make Episcopacy a part of the base case rather than the case of Church Government.

Yours sincerely,

President.

Dear Professor Cameron:

I am returning to you the life of Lord Lister which I have read with the greatest pleasure, and I wish to thank you heartily for the privilege of reading it. He was a wonderful character, and his life must have been an inspiration to all who have been with him.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.

Professor A. H. Cameron,

Dear Professor Cameron:

As you yourself will realise it will be almost impossible for us at this late date to have the Committee on Honorary Degrees meet and the Senate offer an honorary degree to Sir Shirley Murphy. I doubt whether we could get a number even to form a quorum.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.
